1. IS THIS THE CORRECT APPLICATION FORM?

The accompanying application form (AB/F1) is to be used by applicants for all postgraduate courses in the following subject areas:

Medical Sciences Division

Anaesthetics; Cardiovascular Medicine; Nuffield Department of Clinical Laboratory Sciences; Nuffield Department Of Clinical Medicine; Clinical Neurology; Clinical Pharmacology; Medical Oncology; Obstetrics and Gynaecology; Ophthalmology; Orthopaedic Surgery; Paediatrics; Primary Health Care; Psychiatry; Public Health; Radiobiology Research Group; Nuffield Department of Surgery (including Radiology and the taught MSc in Diagnostic Imaging); Human Anatomy and Genetics; Pathology; Pharmacology; Physiology (inc the MSc in Science and Medicine of Athletic Performance); Experimental Psychology

Life and Environmental Sciences Division

Biological Anthropology; Human Biology; Archaeological Science; Zoology; Plant Sciences; Biochemistry

Mathematical and Physical Sciences Division

Life Sciences Interface Doctoral Training Centre; Inorganic Chemistry; Organic Chemistry; Physical and Theoretical Chemistry; Earth Sciences; Engineering Science; Materials; Mathematical Sciences; Mathematics; Computing; Statistics; Astrophysics; Atmospheric, Oceanic and Planetary Physics; Atomic and Laser Physics; Condensed Matter Physics; Particle and Nuclear Physics; Theoretical Physics

You are recommended to contact the department concerned before completing this application form as there may be additional information required. For departmental contact details please see the relevant subject page in the Graduate Studies Prospectus.

PLEASE NOTE: IF THE SUBJECT YOU WISH TO APPLY FOR IS NOT IN THE ABOVE LIST, PLEASE REFER TO THE GRADUATE STUDIES PROSPECTUS FOR DETAILS OF WHICH APPLICATION FORM TO USE. AN ON-LINE VERSION OF THE PROSPECTUS IS AVAILABLE AT: <http://www.admin.ox.ac.uk/gsp/>

2. FAMILY NAME

Your family name will be used as the key for matching supporting materials with your application and for dealing with enquiries. Supporting materials in a different name, or using different spelling, cannot be easily linked to the application. Please note the University cannot take responsibility for documents being incorrectly filed if the family name on the application form is different to that on the supporting materials.

3. SPECIFYING THE PROGRAMME OF STUDY YOU ARE APPLYING FOR

It is important that you specify clearly on your application form the subject and qualification you wish to study so that time is not lost unnecessarily clarifying your intentions. You must ensure (by reference to the prospectus or information issued by the University) that you know which subject you want to apply for, and that it is offered at Oxford. When completing section 10 of the application form, you should bear the following points in mind.

(a) If you want to study for a research degree (D.Phil., M.Litt. or M.Sc. by research) you have to be admitted initially as a Probationer Research Student (PRS). You should tick the PRS box (section 10(a)), and indicate in which department or institute you envisage working. If you have already been in contact with a department or institute that has indicated its wish to accept you, you should include their details. If you have not had such contact you should indicate the appropriate department by reference to the entries in the prospectus and other literature. If your proposed study appears to cross the disciplinary boundaries between departments, you may wish to indicate more than one potential location, but please remember that the less precise you are, the longer it is likely to take us to establish which is the appropriate body for consideration.

If you are applying for Probationer Research Student status you should also give a brief indication of the area of your proposed research; this must be accompanied by a more detailed research proposal (see section 5(c) of these notes).

(b) If you wish to study for one of the following qualifications (M.St., M.Phil., B.Phil., M.Sc. by coursework, or postgraduate diploma), you should tick the appropriate box (section 10(b)) and enter the specific name of the course of study you wish to follow as listed in the Graduate Studies Prospectus or other information material.

4. CHOICE OF COLLEGE

You may choose to apply to four colleges in order of preference. In the event that none of your choices can offer you a place, the Graduate Admissions Office or the department you are applying to will select more colleges on your behalf. Every effort will be made to select appropriate colleges from those with space available, however, it is important to realise that some colleges do fill up quickly and that choices will become more limited as the year progresses.

Some colleges place restrictions (especially with regard to subject of study) on the candidates they are willing to admit. In order to avoid inappropriate choices, it is important that, you first consult the current Graduate Studies Prospectus. You are also advised to ask individual colleges for further information or to consult the web sites of individual colleges. Your prospective department might also be able to offer advice and contact details of administrators and the college affiliation of teaching staff are often published on the department's website.

However, if having read all the information available you are still unable to choose your colleges, you may leave section 11 blank and the University will choose colleges for you.

Please note that once applications are processed it is very difficult to change your choice of college. It is, therefore, in your best interests to research the colleges thoroughly before returning your form.

If you are already a matriculated member of an Oxford college, and wish to remain at or return to that college, you should simply enter it as your first (and only) choice. If you wish to change to another college, you should consult your current college's authorities before taking further action. You are also advised to check with the college you wish to join whether they are willing to agree to consider you.

5. SUPPORTING MATERIALS

A number of items of supporting material, described below, may be required in addition to your application form. Please liaise with the department or institute you are applying to and read the following notes carefully to ensure that you understand what additional material is required in your case. You should indicate in section 20 of the application form which items you are enclosing, and which are not required. If you are not enclosing any items which are required, you should add a note to say why, and when the item(s) can be expected. If any of these items have already been submitted to the University there is no need to enclose fresh copies, but you should indicate in section 20 when and where the items in question were sent. Please also ensure that material sent separately shows the correct spelling and format of your family name as it appears on the application form so that the material can readily be associated with your application.

PLEASE NOTE THAT SUPPORTING MATERIAL CANNOT BE RETURNED; you should therefore only submit copies (authenticated by the institutional authorities in the case of transcripts) of any original material, such as important pieces of written work or transcripts, which you need to retain.

(a) References: give the names and addresses of three referees. If you are applying using the application materials printed from the web please ensure that each of your referees sends their reference in a sealed envelope, that they have signed across the seal and covered their signature with a clear adhesive tape. If you have received the application pack through the post, please forward to each of your referees one of the enclosed envelopes marked 'Letter of reference' or a copy of the reference request sheet, which can be printed from the web with the application form. (Web address: <http://www.admin.ox.ac.uk/gao/printapply.shtml>). Please ask them to submit a confidential reference on your behalf. Each of the references should be returned in a signed and sealed envelope according to the instructions given. The unopened envelopes should ideally be returned with your application form. You are asked to note that your application will not be considered unless at least two of your references have been submitted. If possible, at least two of your referees should have knowledge of your recent studies, and should indicate the standard attained. If you have already arranged for your referees to write to the university department you are applying to, you should enter their details in section 13 of the application form, and write a note in section 20; there is no need to obtain a second set of references.

(b) Transcript: all candidates should submit with their application a detailed official record of their higher education achievements up to the present, including courses taken and standards achieved. Candidates from countries, including the United Kingdom, where transcripts are not universally issued, should ask the appropriate office in their institution (usually the Registry or, in the case of Oxford students, their college authorities) for an official record setting out in detail the elements of the course they have taken so far and, if possible, the standard achieved (or, in the case of Oxford graduates, a statement of marks achieved in individual honours papers). A document (such as a degree certificate) certifying merely that the applicant has been awarded a certain qualification does not meet this requirement, and is not called for at this stage of the admission process. If the policy of your institution is that the transcript should remain confidential, you should ask for it to be sent as soon as possible direct to the department, faculty or institute you are applying to. If your institution is unwilling to issue a transcript - which is more likely to be the case for a course you have not yet completed - you should indicate this in section 20 of the application form. (Current Oxford undergraduates need not supply a transcript, but should note this in section 20, and should ask referees to include in their reference any appropriate quantitative evidence, such as relevant marks in the first public examination.)

(c) Statement of study plans/Research proposal: all candidates should submit with their application, on the form supplied, a statement of their reasons for wishing to study at Oxford and for choosing the particular course applied for. Candidates for PRS status must include in their statement an outline of their proposed research. Candidates for courses which contain an element of research are advised to include some indication of the likely area and title of their thesis. One page is normally sufficient for this statement. Please note applicants to the Faculty of Clinical Medicine should enclose a two page, detailed research proposal covering areas such as background to the research, aims, methodology, expected results and contribution to the field of learning.

(d) Written work: Written work is not usually required for most of the subjects listed on page one of these notes for guidance. You will be advised directly by the department or institute you are applying to if written work is expected. If required, written work may be essays (such as seminar papers) or sections of a longer work. Each sample should usually be of approximately 2,000 words in length (not longer), preferably typed, and must be in English. If any of the work you submit has been translated into English by someone other than yourself, you must indicate this clearly. The written work should be related to the subject you propose to study at Oxford and should provide evidence of your capacity to pursue successfully your proposed course of study. The work need not have already been subject to any academic appraisal.

(e) Certificate of proficiency in English: English is the language of instruction at Oxford and students whose native tongue is not English must be sufficiently fluent in English to enable them to work without disadvantage. For candidates whose first language is not English, minimum scores in one of the standard language tests (IELTS, TOEFL) are a requirement for admission. The minimum requirements are a score of 7.0 in IELTS or 600 in TOEFL (or 250 in the new computer-based test). In addition, candidates offering a paper based TOEFL score as evidence of English proficiency are required to have achieved a TWE of at least 4.5. Some departments may demand higher scores than these so you are advised to check the requirement with the relevant department or by reference to the Graduate Studies Prospectus. Only in exceptional circumstances will students who do not meet these criteria be granted admission. Candidates should make arrangements to take tests as early as possible, and to ensure that the certificated results are submitted with their application or as soon as possible thereafter. Candidates should also ensure that their English test score reaches the University Graduate Admissions Office before any published strict deadlines. The addresses for IELTS and TOEFL are:

IELTS, c/o nearest British Council Office (British Council web site: <http://www.britcoun.org>);

TOEFL, PO Box 6151, Princeton, NJ 08541-6151, USA (TOEFL web site: <http://www.toefl.org>). The TOEFL code for the University of Oxford is 0490.

Non-native speakers of English who have successfully completed (or are currently following) a course of higher education in an institution where English is the principal medium of instruction do not usually need to supply such a certificate, and should indicate in section 21 of the application form their reason for not submitting one. However, some faculties and departments may nevertheless decide to ask for a certificate to be supplied.

6. DISABILITY AND CONFIDENTIALITY

The University is committed to making arrangements to enable disabled students to participate fully in student life. In order to provide support, members of the University may need to share information about your needs. If you disclose on your application form for Graduate Study that you have a disability, information about your disability will be shared on a need to know basis with people in the relevant departments and colleges, such as departmental and academic administrators, lecturers and tutors who will teach you, and relevant library and support staff. If you wish to discuss this section of the application form, or anything to do with disability, please contact the Disability Office in any of the following ways:

Telephone: +44 (0)1865-280459

Fax: +44 (0)1865-280300

E-mail: Disability@admin.ox.ac.uk

Web: www.admin.ox.ac.uk/eop/

7. SENDING OFF YOUR APPLICATION

(a) Where to send the form

Your completed application form should be sent to the address appropriate for your course or subject as given on the sheet enclosed with this booklet or in the Graduate Studies Prospectus. Make sure that you include all the supporting materials you have indicated as enclosed in section 20 of the form. You should also complete and return with your application the acknowledgement card (to be addressed to yourself) which was sent to you with the application form. If your form was printed from the web, you are welcome to include a self-addressed postcard of your own.

(b) When to send the form

Subject Deadlines: Applications for admission should be submitted before the deadline specified in the subject entry in the Graduate Studies Prospectus. Please note that courses may become full and close at any time after the 15th January with no further notice. The faculty or department may not consider applications that arrive or are incomplete after this date has passed.

Funding Deadlines: Candidates intending to apply for any sort of financial support should ensure that their applications are received in time to meet the strict deadlines of the funding bodies to which they are applying. Information about deadlines for various funding bodies and scholarships may be found in the 'Fees, Expenses and Funding' section of the Graduate Studies Prospectus.

8. AFTER WE HAVE RECEIVED YOUR APPLICATION

When your application form is received the self-addressed card you have completed will be posted to you to acknowledge receipt.

Admission for graduate study at the University of Oxford consists of two essential stages: firstly acceptance by the faculty or department responsible for a course or field of study, and secondly acceptance by one of the colleges or halls of the university. Applicants can only take up a place at Oxford once they have been accepted by both bodies, and have met any conditions attached to their offers.

(a) Faculty/department acceptance

Procedures vary but, in general, applications are considered both by specialist assessors and at a meeting of the appropriate committee. In general, departments consider applications as they are received, although some may gather a field of applications before making decisions.

If your application is accepted, the department or institute will notify you directly and will let you know of any conditions attached to the offer. All offers will be conditional on you gaining an offer from an Oxford College and satisfying any financial conditions imposed by the college. Your application materials will then be forwarded to the University Graduate Admissions Office, who will create a record for you on the database and send your application on for consideration by the colleges.

If your application is unsuccessful, you will be informed of this directly by the Department concerned or by the Graduate Admissions Office.

(b) College acceptance

Once you have been accepted by a faculty or department your dossier will be sent on to be considered by colleges in order of preference. If you did not make your own choice of colleges, they will be chosen for you.

If you are not accepted by any of the first set of colleges chosen, the Graduate Admissions Office will send your dossier on to be considered by further colleges, which will be selected taking account of availability at that time. The Graduate Admissions Office will keep a record of the progress of your dossier throughout this process. While we cannot guarantee that you will be offered a college place, we will make every reasonable effort to find you one.

If your application is accepted by a college, the college will write to inform you of this together with any conditions it wishes to make. All college offers will be conditional at least upon your demonstrating that you are able to meet the cost of your proposed course of study.

You should be aware that the procedures governing admission to graduate study at Oxford are rather complex, and it may take a considerable time for final decisions to be made in some cases. Please note that due to Data Protection issues the Graduate Admissions Office cannot give information about applicant status over the telephone or to a third party. You will be notified officially as soon as a decision is made.

STATEMENT OF STUDY PLANS/RESEARCH PROPOSAL

(to be completed by applicant)

(Please refer to Section 2 in the Notes for Guidance booklet)

FIRST NAMES

FAMILY NAME

Course applied for:

Proposed date of entry: October 200

All candidates should set out below a statement of their reasons for wishing to take the particular course they are applying for. Candidates for PRS status (leading to a D.Phil., M.Litt., M.Sc., by research or M.St. research methods courses), or for the M.St. in Legal Research must include in their statement an outline of their proposed research including the proposed thesis title. Candidates for courses which contain an element of research (such as the M.Phil.) are advised to include some indication of the likely area of their thesis. The statement should be continued overleaf if necessary, and should be returned with the application form. You are advised to keep a copy of this statement for use where appropriate in forthcoming applications for funding.

Reference Form (AB)

Section A of this form should be completed by the applicant before forwarding to the referee.

The referee should then complete section B and return the completed reference to the applicant in a sealed envelope according to the instructions below. If this is not appropriate then the referee can return the form directly to the relevant department address as indicated with the Notes of Guidance included with the AB/F1 form.

To avoid delays we would always recommend references to be sent with the other application material where possible.

Section A

To be completed by applicant:

Family Name (as it appears on the application form)

Forename(s)

Course applied for

Section B

To be completed by the referee:

The applicant named above is applying to the University of Oxford, and is asking you to supply a reference. We would be most grateful if you could let us have your comments on this applicant's academic fitness and general suitability for the proposed programme of study, and for any other information you consider to be relevant to this application. If you have knowledge of this applicant's recent study, it would be helpful if you could indicate the standard attained. Please also include your title and name and address of your institution. You are welcome to continue on a separate sheet of paper if necessary. References marked 'Strictly Confidential' will be treated as such, subject to the provisions of the Data Protection Act 1998.

Please seal in an envelope, sign across the seal, and cover with clear adhesive tape. It is in the best interests of the applicant if you can return the reference to them so that it can be sent with the other application materials.

Reference Form (AB)

Section A of this form should be completed by the applicant before forwarding to the referee.

The referee should then complete section B and return the completed reference to the applicant in a sealed envelope according to the instructions below. If this is not appropriate then the referee can return the form directly to the relevant department address as indicated with the Notes of Guidance included with the AB/F1 form.

To avoid delays we would always recommend references to be sent with the other application material where possible.

Section B

To be completed by the referee:

The applicant named above is applying to the University of Oxford, and is asking you to supply a reference. We would be most grateful if you could let us have your comments on this applicant's academic fitness and general suitability for the proposed programme of study, and for any other information you consider to be relevant to this application. If you have knowledge of this applicant's recent study, it would be helpful if you could indicate the standard attained. Please also include your title and name and address of your institution. You are welcome to continue on a separate sheet of paper if necessary. References marked 'Strictly Confidential' will be treated as such, subject to the provisions of the Data Protection Act 1998.

Please seal in an envelope, sign across the seal, and cover with clear adhesive tape. It is in the best interests of the applicant if you can return the reference to them so that it can be sent with the other application materials.
